Before Writing Volume 1 From Counting To Cuneiform:

Before Writing, Vol. I Denise Schmandt-Besserat, 1992 Before Writing gives a new perspective on the evolution of communication. It points out that when writing began in Mesopotamia it was not as previously thought a sudden and spontaneous invention. Instead, it was the outgrowth of many thousands of years worth of experience at manipulating symbols. In Volume I From Counting to Cuneiform, Denise Schmandt Besserat describes how in about 8000 B.C., coinciding with the rise of agriculture, a system of counters or tokens appeared in the Near East. These tokens, small geometrically shaped objects made of clay, represented various units of goods and were used to count and account for them. The token system was a breakthrough in data processing and communication that ultimately led to the invention of writing about 3100 B.C. Through a study of archaeological and epigraphic evidence, Schmandt Besserat traces how the Sumerian cuneiform script, the first writing system, emerged from a counting device. In Volume II A Catalog of Near Eastern Tokens, Schmandt Besserat presents the primary data on which she bases her theories. These data consist of several thousand tokens catalogued by country, archaeological site, and token types and subtypes. The information also includes the chronology, stratigraphy, museum ownership, accession or field number, references to previous publications, material, and size of the artifacts. Line drawings and photographs illustrate the various token types.

Consciousness, Creativity, and Self at the Dawn of Settled Life Ian Hodder, 2020-03-05. Over recent years, a number of scholars have argued that the human mind underwent a cognitive revolution in the Neolithic. This volume seeks to test these claims at the Neolithic site of atalh y k in Turkey and in other Neolithic contexts in the Middle East. It brings together cognitive scientists who have developed theoretical frameworks for the study of cognitive change, archaeologists who have conducted research into cognitive change in the Neolithic of the Middle East, and the excavators of the Neolithic site of atalh y k who have over recent years been exploring changes in consciousness, creativity, and self in the context of the rich data from the site. Collectively, the authors argue that when detailed data are examined, theoretical evolutionary expectations are not found for these three characteristics. The Neolithic was a time of long, slow, and diverse change in which there is little evidence for an internal cognitive revolution. How Writing Came About Denise Schmandt-Besserat, 2010-01-01. An utterly lucid, thoughtfully illustrated, and thoroughly convincing book on the origins of the world's oldest known system of writing. American Journal of Archaeology. One of American Scientist's Top 100 Books on Science 2001. In 1992, the University of Texas Press published Before Writing Volume I: From Counting to Cuneiform and Before Writing Volume II: A Catalog of Near Eastern Tokens. In these two volumes, Denise Schmandt Besserat set forth her groundbreaking theory that the cuneiform script, invented in the Near East in the late fourth millennium B.C., the world's oldest known system of writing, derived from an archaic counting device. How Writing Came About draws material from both volumes of this scholarly work to present Schmandt Besserat's theory in an abridged version for a wide public and classroom audience. Based on the analysis and interpretation of a selection of 8,000 tokens or counters.

from 116 sites in Iran Iraq the Levant and Turkey it documents the immediate precursor of the cuneiform script DIV

Economic Transformations Richard G. Lipsey,Kenneth I. Carlaw,Clifford T. Beker,2005-11-03 This book examines the long term economic growth that has raised the West s material living standards to levels undreamed of by counterparts in any previous time or place The authors argue that this growth has been driven by technological revolutions that have periodically transformed the West s economic social and political landscape over the last 10 000 years and allowed the West to become until recently the world s only dominant technological force Unique in the diversity of the analytical techniques used the book begins with a discussion of the causes and consequences of economic growth and technological change The authors argue that long term economic growth is largely driven by pervasive technologies now known as General Purpose GPTs They establish an alternative to the standard growth models that use an aggregate production function and then introduce the concept of GPTs complete with a study of how these technologies have transformed the West since the Neolithic Agricultural Revolution Early modern science is given more importance than in most other treatments and the 19th century demographic revolution is studied with a combination of formal models of population dynamics and historical analysis The authors argue that once sustained growth was established in the West formal models can shed much light on its subsequent behaviour They build non conventional dynamic non stationary equilibrium models of GPT driven growth that incorporate a range of phenomena that their historical studies show to be important but which are excluded from other GPT models in the interests of analytical tractability The book concludes with a study of the policy implications that follow from their unique approach
