Phylogenetic and Population Genetic Analysis of the Humboldt's Flying Squirrel Using High-throughput Sequencing Data
Stella Chi Yuan, 2020 The intraspecific genetic variation and diversity within the Humboldt's flying squirrel Glaucomys oregonensis has not yet been characterized despite its elevation to full species in 2017 The San Bernardino flying squirrel G. o. californicus is thought to be the southernmost population of G. oregonensis and is restricted to the San Bernardino and San Jacinto Mountains in California but recent surveys indicate they have been extirpated from the latter locality In order to provide baseline genetic data across the geographic range of G. oregonensis I had the following objectives 1 investigate the intraspecific molecular variation in G. oregonensis with a focus on the subspecies distributed in California 2 evaluate the genetic diversity within G. o. californicus 3 estimate if gene flow is occurring between the rest of the species and G. o. californicus Population genetic and phylogenetic analyses incorporating nine microsatellite loci and the partial or entire mitochondrial cytochrome b gene were performed on a total of 147 samples tissue hair and museum specimen using the Illumina high throughput sequencing HTS platform thereby bioinformatically coding alleles based on read count My results support previously published work describing a south to north colonization of the species after the Last Glacial Maximum and highlight the genetic distinctiveness of G. o. californicus The ensuing data from this study contributes valuable information toward understanding the genetic diversity within G. oregonensis provides material to inform future conservation decisions for G. o. californicus and has novel implications for future HTS microsatellite genotyping
