Body Toxic

Susanne Antonetta

“With this lyrical and precisely written memoir, Antonetta has taken the stuff of science gone rabid—and by weaving in family history, has personalized it in the most astonishing way.”

Body Toxic An Environmental Memoir:

Body Toxic Susanne Paola Antonetta, 2002-03-28 A thought provoking and dramatic account two families who hope to start a new life in the boglands of New Jersey only to discover much too late that their new living environment was riddled with radiation and toxic waste Two immigrant families drawn together from wildly different parts of the world Italy on one side and Barbados on the other pursued their vision of the American dream by building a summer escape in the boglands of New Jersey where the rural and industrial collide They picked gooseberries on hot afternoons and spent lazy days rowing dinghies down creeks But the gooseberry patch was near a nuclear power plant that released record levels of radiation and the creeks were invisibly ruined by illegally dumped toxic waste One by one family members found their bodies mirroring the compromised landscape of the Barrens infertile and damaged by inexplicable growths Soon the area parents were being asked to donate their children's baby teeth to be tested for radiation Body Toxic is an environmental memoir merging the personal and familial with the political and environmental fusing fact with meditation Intensely intimate and starkly contemporary it is a story of bravery and resignation of great hope and great loss This book presents American families in the midst of the wreckage of the American dream

Critical Posthumanism: Cloned, Toxic and Cyborg Bodies in Fiction Pelin Kümbet, 2020-12-25 Focusing on three representation of posthuman bodies as cloned bodies in Kazuo Ishiguro's Never Let Me Go 2005 toxic bodies in Indra Sinha's Animal's People 2007 and cyborg bodies in Justina Robson's Natural History 2004 from the theoretical perspectives of posthuman definition of what it means to be human this study discusses the changing concept of the body In this context the integral and dynamic connection between a human body and the world is of special significance which opens up new possibilities to reconfigure the human body that is no longer conceded separate from the nonhuman world but embodied in it. Each of the novels significantly displays the in betweenness of humans by making them interact with chemical substances, machines and other nonhuman entities and shows how clear cut distinctions between the human and the nonhuman bodies have collapsed.

Italian American Poetics of Place Sabrina Vellucci, 2024-11-19. This volume examines the significance of place in contemporary Italian American literature from an ecocritical perspective. It fills a gap in the theoretical discourse on Italian American culture whose concerns about environmental justice have been mostly overlooked. From mid twentieth century poets such as John Ciardi and Diane di Prima to late twentieth and twenty first century fiction writers such as Carole Maso and Salvatore Scibona, the study combines Italian American literary criticism with the spatial turn that over the last decades has asserted the interpretive significance of place and the environment in literary texts. Questioning the prejudice that sees Italian American culture as detached from ecological issues, these works show that such diasporic heritage has helped forge different modes of relationship and new forms of expression in contact with the American land. Their relevance lies not so much in defining or redefining Italian American ethnicity but in forging ideas and futures beyond their immediate framework and subject matter. By focusing on the intersection of gender and ethnicity with local and transnational spaces and aesthetic practices, Italian American Poetics of Place contributes to the growing field of inquiry that explores the resources of the literary in laying the basis for more dialogic and inclusive forms of awareness and community with both the human and other than human.

Environmental Justice in Contemporary US Narratives Yanoula Athanassakis, 2017-02-03. Environmental Justice in Contemporary US Narratives examines post 1929 US artistic interrogations of environmental disruption. Tracing themes of pollution, marine life and agricultural production in the work of a number of historically significant writers including John Steinbeck, Ruth Ozeki and Cherr e Moraga, this book outlines a series of incisive dialogues on transnational flows of capital and environmental justice. Texts ranging from The Grapes of Wrath (1939) to Body Toxic (2001) represent the body as vulnerable to a host of environmental risks. They identify natural disasters not just as environmental hazards and catastrophes but also as events intertwined with socioeconomic issues. With careful textual analysis, Athanassakis shows how twentieth and twenty first century US writers have sought to rethink traditional understandings of how the human being relates to ecological phenomena. Their work and this study offer new modes of creative engagement with environmental degradation, engagement that is proactive, ambivalent and even playful. This book contributes to vital discussions about the importance of literature for social justice movements, food studies, ecocriticism and the environmental humanities. The core argument of the book is that artistically imaginative narratives of environmental disturbance can help humans contend with ostensibly uncontrollable, drastic planetary changes.

Sense of Place and Sense of Planet Ursula K. Heise, 2008-09-29. Sense of Place and Sense of Planet analyzes the relationship between the imagination of the global and the ethical commitment to the local in environmentalist thought and writing from the 1960s to the present Part One critically examines the emphasis on local identities and communities in North American environmentalism by establishing conceptual connections between environmentalism and ecocriticism on one hand and theories of globalization transnationalism and cosmopolitanism on the other It proposes the concept of eco cosmopolitanism as a shorthand for envisioning these connections and the cultural and aesthetic forms into which they translate Part Two focuses on conceptualizations of environmental danger and connects environmentalist and ecocritical thought with the interdisciplinary field of risk theory in the social sciences arguing that environmental justice theory and ecocriticism stand to benefit from closer consideration of the theories of cosmopolitanism that have arisen in this field from the analysis of transnational communities at risk Both parts of the book combine in depth theoretical discussion with detailed analyses of novels poems films computer software and installation artworks from the US and abroad that translate new connections between global national and local forms of awareness into innovative aesthetic forms combining allegory epic and views of the planet as a whole with modernist and postmodernist strategies of fragmentation montage collage and zooming Glyphosate and the Swirl Vincanne

Adams,2022-12-05 In Glyphosate and the Swirl Vincanne Adams explores the chemical glyphosate the active ingredient in Roundup and a pervasive agricultural herbicide as a predicament of contested science and chemically saturated life Adams traces the history of glyphosate s invention and its multiple uses as activists regulators scientists clinicians consumers and sick people try to determine its safety and harm Scientific and political debates over glyphosate s toxicity are agitated into a swirl a condition in which certainty is continually contested divided and multiplied This movement replicates the chemical s movement in soils foods bodies archives labs and legislative bodies settling in some places here and in other places there its potencies changing and altering what it touches with different scales and kinds of impact The swirl is both an artifact of academic capitalism activist tactics and contested scientific facts and a way to capture the complexity of contemporary life with chemicals

Embodied Activisms Lara Martin Lengel,Victoria A. Newsom,2022-02-09 Embodied Activisms explores how activists use their bodies to resist social norms engage with institutions and promote change This book spans historical perspectives current contexts and the most current scholarly literature to interrogate how embodied activism is read performed understood and actualized The studies in this volume address current critical issues such as police accountability activism the climate crisis environmental concerns and protests of Supreme Court confirmation hearings Chapters analyze a wide range of nonviolent mobilization tactics including silent protests embodied witnessing leisure spectacle demonstrations performance art and other forms of creative practice and rallies Analyses engage with aspects of intersectionality in activism and critique diverse modes of embodied resistance in locations including East Central Europe the Americas and the Mediterranean region

Sensing Law Sheryl Hamilton,Diana Majury,Dawn Moore,Neil Sargent,Christiane Wilke,2016-11-25 A rich collection of interdisciplinary essays this book explores the question what is to be found at the intersection of the sensorium and law's empire Examining the problem of how legal rationalities try to grasp what can only be sensed through the body these essays problematize the Cartesian framework that has long separated the mind from the body reason from feeling and the human from the animal In doing so they consider how the sensorium can operate variously as a tool of power or as a means of countering the exercise of regulatory force The senses it is argued operate as a vector for the implication of subjects in legal webs but also as a powerful site of resistance to legal definition and determination From the sensorium of animals to technologically mediated perception the ways in which the law senses and the ways in which senses are brought before the law invite a questioning of the categories of liberal humanism And as this volume demonstrates this questioning opens up the both interesting and important possibility of imagining other sensual subjectivities

New Directions in Ecofeminist Literary Criticism Andrea Campbell, 2009-03-26 As ecofeminism continues to gain attention from multiple academic discourses the field of literary criticism has been especially affected by this philosophy social movement Scholars using ecofeminist literary criticism are making new and important arguments concerning literature across the spectrum and issues of environment race class gender sexuality and other forms of oppression The essays in New Directions in Ecofeminist Literary Criticism highlight the intersections of these oppressions through the works of different authors including Barbara Kingsolver Ruth Ozeki Linda Hogan and Flora Nwapa and demonstrate the expansion of ecofeminist literary criticism to a more global scale as well as important connections with the field of environmental justice This collection offers fresh insight and expands the important discussion surrounding the field of ecofeminism and literature
