Representative Phi Beta Kappa Orations (Classic Reprint) Clark Sutherland Northup, 2015-07-04 Excerpt from Representative Phi Beta Kappa Orations The Phi Beta Kappa was organized not only as a fraternal but as a literary and debating society and the exercises appropriate in such a society were conducted with more or less regularity for many years In addition to these exercises there grew up in several chapters the custom of an annual meeting with an oration and a poem The annual address has now become indeed a custom in most of the eighty six chapters and thus has been produced a considerable body of literature The list of those addresses which have been printed already includes some hundreds of titles The range of subjects dealt with by these orators is a wide one Many have been educators and have discussed topics connected with their profession others have dealt with political historical social or religious topics Many of these addresses possess intrinsic value and nearly all even the earliest have still some value as reflecting the opinions of their times or of their authors It has been thought by many that some of the most representative of these orations should be reprinted not only because they are in themselves worthy of thus receiving a new lease of life but also because such a collection would help to emphasize the aims for which the Society has always stood the cultivation of friendship literature and morality To the Committee named below therefore the United Chapters has entrusted the task of selecting these orations and of seeing the volume through the press The Committee has found it by no means easy to make a selection doubtless several more volumes as good as this could be made The Committee hopes that the reception accorded this volume may be so favorable as to make possible the publication of a second series of orations and perhaps a volume of poems The frontispiece is from a crayon portrait of Emerson about 1846 by either Hildreth or Johnston and first appeared in Volume V of Emerson's Journals It is here reproduced by the kind permission of the owners of the copyright About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve

PRESENT-DAY THOUGHTS ON THE AM Charles McLean Andrews,2017-01-13 Excerpt from Present Day Thoughts on the American Revolution Phi Beta Kappa Oration June 18th 1919 But the healthy instinct of future generations will not be content with such a vapid interpretation of our past it will demand the truth no matter how little attesting it may prove to be and the day will come in fact it is not far distant when our history will be studied for its own sake and when the events of our Revolution will no longer be used to glorify ancestors to justify racial claims to prominence in our struggle for independence or what is worse than all else to increase the animosity toward Great Britain on the basis of events occurring a century and a half ago many of the current interpretations of our Revolutionary history are merely forms of propaganda designed for party advantage or founded on mistaken ideas of patriotic duty And when all these are swept away and the events of these momentous years are studied for the truth that is in them then only will the profession of historian have come into its own in America About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works An Oration Pronounced Before the Phi Beta Kappa Society of Harvard University, July 17, 1851 William Buell Sprague,1851 Oration Before the Phi Beta Kappa Society of Brown University Francis C. Gray,2015-07-12 Excerpt from Oration Before the Phi Beta Kappa Society of Brown University Providence R L On Commencement Day September 7 1842 Among our numerous anniversaries there are none more interesting than those in which we come up from the cares and the turmoil and the contentions of the world like the Jews of old yearly to their temple to the sacred seats of learning to witness the proficiency and do honour to the merit of the Youth who having completed their collegiate course are about entering on the duties of society and to welcome them as fellow labourers in the field of life The occasion carries us back to the period when we stood as they do on the threshold of existence gazing eagerly into a future not with clouds and darkness resting on it but glowing with the sunshine of hope and peopled with the brightest visions of youthful expectation It carries us forward to the day when they will look back like us on realities how different from their dreams It is good for us to be here and being here to contemplate the past and the future About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of

Sprague, 2018-01-10 Excerpt from An Oration Pronounced Before the Phi Beta Kappa Society of Harvard University July 17 1851 French the language of the court and exerting himself in various ways to make it the language of the country But notwithstanding all his attempts successful and unsuccessful at revolution and oppression the Saxons not only remained in the land but constituted the larger part of its population Their language though essentially modified by a liberal infusion of foreign words and idioms still continued to be the popular language Their institutions though moulded into a new form by the influence of feudalism were still pervaded more or less by the Saxon spirit The two nations were perhaps equally bold and warlike but the Saxons were the more thoughtful the Normans the more impulsive the spirit of chivalry had much to do in moulding the character of the latter whereas we detect no traces of it in the character of the former For a while it was no easy matter for them to dwell together as brethren but time gradually subdued their mutual antipathies and fused them into a common mass so that the peculiarities of each could no longer be distinguished And About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
