Labor, Global Supply Chains, and the Garment Industry in South Asia Sanchita Saxena, 2019-06-27 This book argues that larger flaws in the global supply chain must first be addressed to change the way business is conducted to prevent factory owners from taking deadly risks to meet clients demands in the garment industry in Bangladesh Using the 2013 Rana Plaza disaster as a departure point and to prevent such tragedies from occurring in the future this book presents an interdisciplinary analysis to address the disaster which resulted in a radical change in the functioning of the garment industry The chapters present innovative ways of thinking about solutions that go beyond third party monitoring They open up possibilities for a renewed engagement of international brands and buyers within the garment sector a focus on direct worker empowerment using technology the role of community based movements developing a model of change through enforceable contracts combined with workers movements and a more productive and influential role for both factory owners and the government This book makes key interventions and rethinks the approaches that have been taken until now and proposes suggestions for the way forward It engages with international brands the private sector and civil society to strategize about the future of the industry and for those who depend on it for their livelihood A much needed review and evaluation of the many initiatives that have been set up in Bangladesh in the wake of Rana Plaza this book is a valuable addition to academics in the fields of development studies gender and women's studies human rights poverty and practice political science economics sociology anthropology and South Asian studies Historical Dictionary of Bangladesh Syedur Rahman, 2010-04-27 Bangladesh literally the land of the Bengalis is the most recent addition in 1971 to the independent nations of South Asia It had previously been known as East Pakistan and prior to that it was part of British India

It has been inhabited by people of different races and religions and ruled over by different leaders who imposed different regimes. It is overpopulated and underdeveloped but there is much more to it than that. Bangladesh has a long and oftentimes proud tradition; it has produced writers and artists of genius and it is an important outpost of Islam. And with a population of some 130 million, it is one of the larger countries in the world. The fourth edition of the Historical Dictionary of Bangladesh greatly expands on the previous edition through a chronology, an introductory essay, a bibliography, and over 700 cross-referenced dictionary entries on important people, places, events, and institutions, as well as significant political, economic, social, and cultural aspects.

The Power to Choose Naila Kabeer, 2020-05-05. In this path-breaking study, social economist Naila Kabeer examines the lives of Bangladeshi garment workers in Bangladesh and Britain to shed light on the question of what constitutes fair competition in international trade. She argues that if the unhealthy coalition of multinationals and labor movements is truly seeking to improve the working conditions for women and children in the Third World, as well as those of western workers, their efforts should be directed away from an attempt to impose labor standards and towards a support for the organization of labor rights. Any attempt to devise acceptable labor standards at an international level which takes no account of the forces of inclusion and exclusion with local labor movements, she further argues, is likely to represent the interests of the powerful at the expense of those of the weak.

Rights, Resources and the Politics of Accountability Peter Newell, Joanna Wheeler, 2006-05. With examples drawn from a wide range of economic and industrial sectors and from both South and North, this title presents a topical exploration of struggles for accountability in development projects.

New Spaces and Old Frontiers Salma Ahmed Nageeb, 2004-01-01. Salma Nageeb's book provides case studies and analysis of the lives of four Muslim women living in Khartoum, the capital of Sudan. Nageeb examines how these women negotiate their social space, locating their daily struggles within the increasingly rigid Islamic practice in Sudan. The women express resistance and cultural accommodation in different ways while some choose to instrumentalize state and religious rules and rhetoric for their own aims; others stretch the boundaries with gentle persistence. These case studies provide a unique dimension to Nageeb's important sociological and social anthropological analysis of everyday life in the context of globalization and Islamization.
