Book And Education Students Disabilities Accountability Practices:

Education of Students with Disabilities Michelle Garza, 2015 Formerly excluded from measures of educational performance students with disabilities SWDs are now explicitly recognised in federal and state accountability systems At the national level the 1997 amendments to the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act IDEA laid the foundation for accountability for SWDs by requiring states to include these students in state and district assessments and to report their participation and performance This requirement was further reinforced by the Elementary and Secondary Education Act ESEA as reauthorised in 2001 which established SWDs as an explicit student subgroup for the purpose of determining whether schools make adequate yearly progress AYP The Institute of Education Sciences IES of the U S Department of Education ED has a congressional mandate to conduct a national assessment of how well the IDEA is achieving its purposes As part of the national assessment of IDEA this study is intended to provide policy relevant information about the education of SWDs by examining their inclusion in school accountability systems and by describing the use of school practices that may relate to educational outcomes for these students This book presents descriptive information on school level accountability AYP performance and school improvement status of schools accountable for SWD subgroup performance under Title I of the ESEA as well as schools not accountable for SWD subgroup performance Moreover the book presents descriptive findings focusing on school practices related to staffing student support instructional time educational placements teacher collaboration and professional development in schools explicitly held accountable for the performance of the SWD subgroup and schools that are not accountable for the performance of the SWD subgroup

Critical Issues in Special Education

Audrey McCray Sorrells, Herbert J. Rieth, Paul T. Sindelar, 2004 This book represents the contributions of prominent researchers teacher educators policy makers teachers and parents on current and emerging issues facing the field of special education and their critical thinking on how to ensure that students with disabilities receive free appropriate education in the least restrictive environment The authors present divergent perspectives on the issues and concerns including a the emergence of more constructivistic instruction approaches that focus increasingly on higher order thinking b new organization structures for administering schools c standards based reform and the use of high stakes testing for evaluating students d the changing population and the increasingly diverse demographics of the students served in the public schools e the onset of the information age and the increasingly visible role of technology in the schools and the workplace f concerns about student discipline and violence in schools g the continuing shortage of qualified and certified special education teachers and h trends in higher education focused on the reform of teacher education such as changing standards for knowledge and skills preparing teachers for changing roles as mentors and changes in the teacher education process that may have precipitated or influenced issues in the field For special education providers such as parents and teachers and for anyone interested in the field of special education
