The Oxford Handbook of Urban Planning Randall Crane, Rachel Weber, 2015 Why plan How and what do we plan Who plans for whom These three questions are then applied across three major topics in planning States Markets and the Provision of Social Goods The Methods and Substance of Planning and Agency Implementation and Decision Making

The Oxford Handbook of Public Heritage Theory and Practice Angela M. Labrador, Neil Asher Silberman, 2018-07-11 The Oxford Handbook of Public Heritage Theory and Practice charts some of the major sites of convergence between the humanities and the social sciences where new disciplinary perspectives are being brought to bear on the field of cultural heritage These convergences have the potential to provide the interdisciplinary expertise needed not only to critique but also to achieve the intertwined intellectual political and socioeconomic goals of cultural heritage in the twenty first century

World Heritage and National Registers Thomas R. Gensheimer, Celeste Lovette Guichard, 2017-09-08 Historic sites celebrate defining moments in history memorialize important events and people and contribute to the character of the locations where they are situated Heritage designation both globally and nationally is an inherently contested issue As detailed in this volume concerns of politics and identity criteria for designation impacts on communities and sites and challenges to management planning are central to any understanding of the process by which heritage sites are created developed and maintained The idea for this volume originated at a symposium hosted by the Savannah College of Art and Design Contributors address such topics as the need to revamp criteria for designation the effect historic site recognition has on local communities the challenges encountered in maintaining a site and issues linked to specific political climates or actions and group identity The contributors constitute an international cast of leading scholars employees and policy makers all of whom have had extensive experience with World Heritage and National Register site stewardship The work will be an invaluable reference for historians architects and those committed to the preservation of national monuments

Challenging History Leah Worthington, Rachel Clare Donaldson, John W. White, 2021-07-22 A collection of essays that examine how the history of slavery and race in the United States has been interpreted and inserted at public historic sites For decades racism and social inequity have stayed at the center of the national conversation in the United States sustaining the debate around public historic places and monuments and what they represent These conversations are a reminder of the crucial role that public history professionals play in engaging public audiences on subjects of race and slavery This difficult history has often remained un or underexplored in our public discourse hidden from view by the tourism industry or even by public history professionals themselves as they created historic sites museums and public squares based on white centric interpretations of history and heritage Challenging History through a collection of essays by a diverse group of scholars and practitioners examines how difficult histories specifically those of slavery and race in the United States are being interpreted and inserted at public history sites and in public history work Several essays explore the successes and challenges of recent projects while others discuss gaps that public historians can fill at sites where Black history took place but is absent in the interpretation Through case studies the contributors reveal the entrenched false narratives that public history workers are countering in established public history spaces and the work they are conducting to reorient our collective understanding of the past History practitioners help the public better understand the world Their choices help to shape ideas about heritage and historical remembrances and can reform even transform worldviews through more inclusive and ethically narrated histories Challenging History invites public historians to consider the ethical implications of the narratives they choose to share and makes the case that an inclusive honest and complete portrayal of the past has the potential to reshape collective memory and ideas about the meaning of American history and citizenship Preservation Education Barry L.

Stiefel, Jeremy C. Wells, 2014-09-02 Over the past twenty years there has been a fundamental shift in the institutional organization of historic preservation education Historic preservation is the most recent arrival in the collection of built environment disciplines and therefore lacks the pedagogical depth and breadth found in allied endeavors such as architecture and planning As the first degree programs in preservation only date to the 1970s and the first doctoral programs to the 1990s new faculty are confronted with pedagogical challenges that are unique to this relatively nascent field Based on a conference that included educators from around the world Barry L Stiefel and Jeremy C Wells now present a collection that seeks to address fundamental issues of preservation pedagogy outcome based education and assessment and global issues of authenticity and significance in historic preservation The editors argue that the subject of the analysis has shifted from What is the best way to fix a historic building to What are the best ways for teaching people how to preserve historic properties and why according to the various standards that have been established This important reconsideration of the state of the field in historic preservation education will appeal to a broad audience across numerous disciplines Preserving South

Street Seaport James M Lindgren, 2019-08-27 Preserving South Street Seaport tells the fascinating story from the 1960s to the present of the South Street Seaport District of Lower Manhattan Home to the original Fulton Fish Market and then the South Street Seaport Museum it is one of the last neighborhoods of late 18th and early 19th century New York City not to be destroyed by urban development In 1988 South Street Seaport became the city's 1 destination for visitors Featuring over 40 archival and contemporary black and white photographs this is the first history of a remarkable historic district and maritime museum Lindgren skillfully tells the complex story of this unique cobblestoned neighborhood Comprised of deteriorating 4 5 story buildings in what was known as the Fulton Fish Market the neighborhood was earmarked for the erection of the World Trade Center until New Jersey forced its placement one mile westward After Penn Station's demolition had angered many New York citizens preservationists mobilized in 1966 to save this last piece of Manhattan's old port and recreate its fabled 19th century Street of Ships The South Street Seaport and the World Trade Center became the yin and yang of Lower Manhattan's rebirth In an unprecedented move City Hall designated the museum as developer of the twelve block urban renewal district However the Seaport Museum whose membership became the largest of any history museum in the city was never adequately funded and it suffered with the real estate collapse of 1972 The city bankers and state bought the museum's fifty buildings and leased them back at terms that crippled the museum financially That led to the controversial construction of the Rouse Company's New Fulton Market 1983 and Pier 17 mall 1985 Lindgren chronicles these years of struggle as the defenders of the people oriented museum and historic district tried to save the original streets and buildings and the largest fleet of historic ships in the country from the schemes of developers bankers politicians and even museum administrators Though the Seaport Museum's finances were always tenuous the neighborhood and the museum were improving until the tragedy of 9/11 But the prolonged recovery brought on dysfunctional museum managers and indifference if not hostility from City Hall Superstorm Sandy then dealt a crushing blow Today the future of this pioneering museum designated by Congress as America's National Maritime Museum is in doubt as its waterfront district is eyed by powerful commercial developers While Preserving South Street Seaport reveals the pitfalls of privatizing urban renewal developing museum corporate partnerships and introducing a professional regimen over a people's movement it also tells the story of how a seedy decrepit piece of waterfront became a wonderful venue for all New Yorkers and visitors from around the world to enjoy This book will appeal to a wide audience of readers in the history and practice of museums historic preservation urban history and urban development and contemporary New York City This book is supported by a grant from Furthermore a program of the J M Kaplan Fund

White Supremacy, Settler Colonialism, Modernist Architecture, and Contemporary Preservation Robert Flahive, 2025-06-27 This book examines the afterlives of the built environment produced through early 20th century settler colonialism The author analyzes contemporary architectural preservationists narrative strategies to remake what were designed as racialized European zones in opposition to Indigenous zones as white cities through the documentation preservation and addition to the UNESCO World Heritage List This book interrogates the fashioning of white cities through ethnographic methods with local architectural preservationists and primary sources such as World Heritage Committee meeting notes and World Heritage List nomination files and inscription materials in the preservation of built form in Asmara Brasilia Casablanca Rabat and Tel Aviv The book is aimed at scholars and students interested in the politics of the built environment spatial politics urban studies architectural history international relations urban geopolitics settler colonialism international organizations and the politics of commemoration
