Patentism Replacing Capitalism

Samuel Meng, 2019-05-03 Based on economic knowledge and logical reasoning this book proposes a solution to economic recessions and offers a route for societal change to end capitalism The author starts with a brief review of the history of economics and then questions and rejects the trend of recent decades that has seen econometrics replace economic theory By reviewing the different schools of economic thought and by examining the limitations of existing theories to business cycles and economic growth the author forms a new theory to explain cyclic economic growth According to this theory economic recessions result from innovation scarcity which in turn results from the flawed design of the patent system The author suggests a new design for the patent system and envisions that the new design would bring about large economic and societal changes Under this new patent system the synergy of the patent and capital markets would ensure that economic recessions could be avoided and that the economy would grow at the highest speed

Mathematical Economics Vasily E. Tarasov,2020-06-03 This book is devoted to the application of fractional calculus in economics to describe processes with memory and non locality Fractional calculus is a branch of mathematics that studies the properties of differential and integral operators that are characterized by real or complex orders Fractional calculus methods are powerful tools for describing the processes and systems with memory and nonlocality Recently fractional integro differential equations have been used to describe a wide class of economical processes with power law memory and spatial nonlocality Generalizations of basic economic concepts and notions the economic processes with memory were proposed New mathematical models with continuous time are proposed to describe economic dynamics with long memory This book is a collection of articles reflecting the latest mathematical and conceptual developments in mathematical economics with memory and non locality based on applications of fractional calculus

The Dynamic Macroeconomic Effects of Public Capital Christophe Kamps,2004-12-22 This book analyzes the dynamic macroeconomic effects of public capital in industrialized countries The issue of whether public capital is productive has received a great deal of recent attention Yet existing empirical analyses have been limited to a small set of countries This book presents a new database that provides internationally comparable capital stock estimates for 22 OECD countries for the 1960 2001 period Building on this database the book estimates the dynamic effects of public capital using a variety of econometric methods The results suggest that public capital is productive in OECD countries on average The theoretical analysis based on a dynamic general equilibrium model shows that the effects of public capital depend crucially on the way the government chooses to finance additional spending
