Sites of Violence, Sites of Grace Cynthia Hess, 2008-12-16 Cynthia Hess offers a thoughtful reconstruction of Christian nonviolence through an examination of both theological and theoretical works She shows how contemporary understandings of violence and the human person challenge traditional views of nonviolence as pacifism and the refusal of military violence Hess begins with an analysis of the extensive writings on nonviolence by John Howard Yoder one of the foremost twentieth century thinkers on this subject She then seeks to deepen his view by probing the insights of trauma scholars who explore the powerful and lasting effects of traumatic violence on individuals and communities These scholars often maintain that many survivors continue to hold the reality of traumatic violence within their bodies and minds so that it becomes part of them as they move through time In light of this claim Hess argues that Christian nonviolence must move beyond pacifism to directly address the problem of internalized violence In conversation with resources in Yoder's work as well as feminist theory and trauma studies she analyzes an often overlooked dimension of religious nonviolence the creation of communities in which traumatized persons can survive and flourish With its highly interdisciplinary character this book presents a fresh perspective on Christian nonviolence that not only challenges traditional views but also reclaims the centrality of nonviolence

for contemporary Christian theology and practice

Politics of the Islamic Tradition Mohammed Moussa, 2015-10-05

Over the last two centuries the Muslim world has undergone dramatic transformations impacting the Islamic tradition and throwing into question our understanding of tradition. The notion of tradition as an unmoving edifice is contradicted by the very process of its transmission and the complex role human beings play in creating and sustaining traditions is evident in the indigenous mechanisms of change within the Islamic tradition. Politics of the Islamic Tradition locates the work of Egyptian cleric Muhammad al Ghazali within the context of this dynamic Islamic tradition with special focus on his political thought. Al Ghazali inherited a vast and diverse heritage which he managed to reinterpret in a changing world. An innovative exploration of the change and continuity present within Muslim discourses, this book brings together disparate threads of the Islamic tradition: religious exegesis, the contemporary Arab Middle East, the Islamic state, and idea of renewal in al Ghazali's thought. As well as being one of the first complete treatments of al Ghazali's works, this book provides an original critical approach to tradition and its capability for innovation and change, countering the dichotomy between tradition and modernity that typically informs most scholarly studies on contemporary Islam. Offering highly original insights into Islamic thought and engaging with critical notions of tradition, this book is essential reading for students and scholars of Islamic Politics and History.
