A New Vision For Iowa Food And Agriculture:

A New Vision for Iowa Food and Agriculture Francis Thicke, 2010-07 Francis Thicke PhD is a scientist an expert on sustainable agriculture and a practicing dairy farmer He is widely consulted for his clear explanations of the economic and ecological forces that are changing the way we produce food in the modern world This book draws from his background as an organic dairy farmer and as a soil scientist who has served at the U S Department of Agriculture in Washington D C as National Program Leader for Soil Science This introductory book addresses topics from industrial farming including CAFOs Concentrated Animal Feeding Operations to the ongoing conflicts between factory farms and family farms to how family farms can be profitable after peak oil He also examines industrial agriculture and nature s own ecological methods and shows how in his own dairy operation new sustainable approaches can be less costly more productive and return more profits to farmers Dr Thicke is an advocate for the systematic improvement of agricultural technology and farming methods and for the effective use of sustainable renewable sources of energy to achieve self sufficiency in food production His insights have proven increasingly relevant in the development of new public policy for Iowa with profound implications for the United States as a whole

Tending Iowa's Land Cornelia F. Mutel, 2022-12-28 An Introduction to Iowa s Environmental Problems is an edited volume with 17 contributors besides Connie Mutel herself all Iowa authors who are scientific experts in the field Geared toward course adoption in Iowa and Midwest classrooms it will fill a need for a comprehensive but accessible and brief overview of the environmental issues Iowa faces and what we can do about them Specifically the volume breaks down the issues surrounding Iowa s land and soils water atmosphere and loss of biological diversity Teachers lack a go to resource for explaining this topic to their students and many Iowans remain unaware of the environmental impacts of farming And with the new administration s focus on environmental concerns including climate change the timing is right to change that At this point Iowa can choose a route toward becoming an agricultural factory that disregards nature s sustainability and resilience or we can steer toward a saner future that recognizes and honors our soils climate water and native species With this book Mutel will help guide future Iowa leaders toward the latter

The Farm Bill Daniel Imhoff, Christina Badaracco, 2019-01-10 The farm bill is one of the most important pieces of legislation the American president signs Negotiated every five to seven years it has tremendous implications for food production nutrition assistance habitat conservation international trade and much more Yet at nearly 1 000 pages it is difficult to understand for policymakers let alone citizens In this primer Dan Imhoff and Christina Badaracco translate all the legalese and political jargon into an accessible graphics rich 200 pages Readers will learn the basic elements of the bill its origins and history and perhaps most importantly the battles that will determine the direction of food policy in the coming years The authors trace how the legislation has evolved from its first incarnation during the Great Depression to today when America has become the world s leading agricultural powerhouse They explain the three main components of the bill farm subsidies food stamps or

SNAP and conservation programs as well as how crucial public policies are changing With a new farm bill just signed into law we all need to understand the implications of food policy What s the impact of crop insurance How does SNAP actually work What would it take to create a healthier more sustainable food system These are questions that affect not only farmers but everyone who eats If you care about the answers The Farm Bill is your guide Making Local Food Work Brandi Janssen,2017-04-15 When it comes to local food it takes more than knowing your farmer Brandi Janssen takes on some of the myths about how the local food system works and what it needs to thrive Advocates claim that small biodiverse farms will fundamentally change farming rural communities and the American diet For many simply by knowing our farmers we become champions of a new way of eating that revolutionizes our economy and society But that argument ignores the fact that if local food is to succeed it requires many of the trappings of conventional food production including processors middle men inspectors and regulators By listening to and working alongside people trying to build a local food system in Iowa Janssen uncovers the complex realities of making it work Although the state is better known for its vast fields of conventionally grown corn and soybeans it has long boasted a robust network of small diverse farms community supported agriculture enterprises and farmers markets As she picks tomatoes processes wheatgrass and joins a parents committee trying to buy local lettuce for a school lunch Janssen asks how small farmers and CSA owners deal with farmers market regulations neighbors who spray pesticides on crops or lawns and sanitary regulations on meat processing and milk production How can they meet the needs of large buyers like school districts Who does the hard work of planting weeding harvesting and processing Is local food production benefitting rural communities as much as advocates claim In answering these questions Janssen displays the pragmatism and level headedness one would expect of the heartland much like the farmers and processors profiled here It s doable she states but we re going to have to do more than shop at our local farmers market to make it happen This book is an ideal introduction to what local food means today and what it might be tomorrow Research Handbook on Climate Change and Agricultural Law Mary Jane Angelo,Anél Du Plessis,2017-03-31 Research Handbook on Climate Change and Agricultural Law Defending Beef Nicolette Hahn Niman,2021-07-20 Nicolette Hahn Niman sets out to debunk just about everything you think you know She s not trying to change your mind she s trying to save your world Los Angeles Times Elegant strongly argued The Atlantic named a Best Food Book As the meat industry from small scale ranchers and butchers to sprawling slaughterhouse operators responds to COVID 19 the climate threat and the rise of plant based meats Defending Beef delivers a passionate argument for responsible meat production and consumption in an updated and expanded new edition For decades it has been nearly universal dogma among environmentalists that many forms of livestock goats sheep and others but especially cattle are Public Enemy Number One They erode soils pollute air and water damage riparian areas and decimate wildlife populations As recently as 2019 a widely circulated Green New Deal fact sheet even highlighted the problem of farting cows But is the matter really so clear cut Hardly In Defending Beef Second Edition environmental lawyer turned rancher Nicolette Hahn Niman argues that cattle are not inherently bad for the earth. The impact of grazing can be either negative or positive depending on how livestock are managed. In fact, with proper oversight, livestock can play an essential role in maintaining grassland ecosystems by performing the same functions as the natural herbivores that once roamed and grazed there. With more public discussions and media being paid to connections between health and diet, food and climate, and climate and farming, especially cattle farming, Defending Beef has never been more timely. And in this newly revised and updated edition, the author also addresses the explosion in popularity of fake meat, both highly processed plant-based foods and meat grown from cells in a lab rather than on the hoof. Defending Beef is simultaneously a book about big issues and the personal journey of the author, who continues to fight for animal welfare and good science. Hahn Niman shows how dispersed grass-based, smaller-scale farms can and should become the basis of American food production.

Nomination of Gov. Thomas J. Vilsack, of Iowa, to be Secretary of Agriculture United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry, 2010 Eat Here Brian Halweil, 2004-11-23 Includes a number of case studies in which local people began using local supply as their primary source of food. Halweil shows how consumers and producers can create short chain food economies whether the locale is Norway, Egypt, Hawaii, Washington, Kenya, Brazil, Massachusetts, or even East Hampton To Prepare for the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Title of the Upcoming Farm Bill United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry, 2002 North Central Region 1993 SARE/ACE Report to Congress SARE/ACE Program. North Central Region, 1993
