Biodiversity And Ecosystem Functioning Synthesis And Perspectives Environmental Science:

Biodiversity and Ecosystem Functioning Michel Loreau, Shahid Naeem, Pablo Inchausti, 2002 This is the hottest area in ecology and environmental sciences right now I think this is an excellent proposal Professor James Grover University of Texas at Arlington USA The outline is excellent This is going to be the hottest book in ecology over the next 5 to 10 years Professor Michael Hochberg Universite de Montpellier 2 France Determining the scientific relationship between biodiversity and ecosystem functioning has now emerged as one of the most important challenges in ecological and environmental science This book provides a timely synthesis and critical assessment in order to generate a consensus on the main issues involved and stimulate new perspectives for future research Biodiversity, Ecosystem Functioning, and Human Wellbeing

Shahid Naeem, Daniel E. Bunker, Andy Hector, Michel Loreau, Charles Perrings, 2009-07-30 How will biodiversity loss affect ecosystem functioning ecosystem services and human well being In an age of accelerating biodiversity loss this timely and critical volume summarizes recent advances in biodiversity ecosystem functioning research and explores the economics of biodiversity and ecosystem services The book starts by summarizing the development of the basic science and provides a meta analysis that quantitatively tests several biodiversity and ecosystem functioning hypotheses It then describes the natural science foundations of biodiversity and ecosystem functioning research including quantifying functional diversity the development of the field into a predictive science the effects of stability and complexity methods to quantify mechanisms by which diversity affects functioning the importance of trophic structure microbial ecology and spatial dynamics Finally the book takes research on biodiversity and ecosystem functioning further than it has ever gone into the human dimension describing the most pressing environmental challenges that face humanity and the effects of diversity on climate change mitigation restoration of degraded habitats managed ecosystems pollination disease and biological invasions However what makes this volume truly unique are the chapters that consider the economic perspective These include a synthesis of the economics of ecosystem services and biodiversity and the options open to policy makers to address the failure of markets to account for the loss of ecosystem services an examination of the challenges of valuing ecosystem services and hence to understanding the human consequences of decisions that neglect these services and an examination of the ways in which economists are currently incorporating biodiversity and ecosystem functioning research into decision models for the conservation and management of biodiversity A final section describes new advances in ecoinformatics that will help transform this field into a globally predictive science and summarizes the advancements and future directions of the field The ultimate conclusion is that biodiversity is an essential element of any strategy for sustainable development Marine Biodiversity and Ecosystem Functioning

Martin Solan, Rebecca J. Aspden, David M. Paterson, 2012-07-19 This edited volume is the first to address the latest advances in biodiversity function science using marine examples It provides an in depth evaluation of the science before offering a perspective on future research directions for some of the most pressing environmental issues facing society today and in the future

Ecosystem Functioning Kurt Jax, 2010-09-16 In the face of decreasing biodiversity and ongoing global changes maintaining ecosystem functioning is seen both as a means to preserve biological diversity as well as for safeguarding human well being by securing the services ecosystems provide The concept today is prominent in many fields of ecology and conservation biology such as biodiversity research ecosystem management or restoration ecology Although the idea of ecosystem functioning is important the concept itself remains rather vague and elusive This book provides a novel analysis and integrated synthesis of different approaches to conceptualising and assessing ecosystem functioning It links the natural sciences with methodologies from philosophy and the social sciences and introduces a new methodology for a clearer and more efficient application of ecosystem functioning concepts in practice Special emphasis is laid on the social dimensions of the concept and the ways it influences research practice Several case studies relate theoretical analyses to practical application

The Impact of Environmental Variability on Ecological Systems D.A. Vasseur, K.S. McCann, 2007-05-08 Fluctuations in the environmental conditions impacting life are ubiquitous These fluctuations induce changes in the vital processes occurring within individual organisms such as cellular metabolism and the ecological processes occurring among individuals such as competition mutualism and predation ultimately leading to observable fluctuations in the commonly measured characteristics of ecological systems From a very simple perspective these processes are all modulators of environmental variability We might best be able to understand the final form of this modulation the impact of environmental variability on ecological systems by building from an understanding of the responses of these life processes in isolation to an understanding of their responses in harmony The impact of environmental variability on ecological systems is an issue that has been at the forefront of ecological research for many years Research is taking place on many fronts including theoretical mathematical based analyses natural ecosystem observation and experimentation This book brings together contributions from these three fronts to provide readers with a comprehensive look at the challenges for ecological systems and ecological research alike

Biodiversity, Ecosystem Functioning, and Human Wellbeing Shahid Naeem, 2009-07-30 The book starts by summarizing the development of the basic science and provides a meta analysis that quantitatively tests several biodiversity and ecosystem functioning hypotheses

Ecosystem Services from Agriculture and Agroforestry Bruno Rapidel, Fabrice DeClerck, Jean Francois Le Coq, John Beer, 2012-06-25 Agricultural systems are no longer evaluated solely on the basis of the food they provide but also on their capacity to limit impacts on the environment such as soil conservation water quality and biodiversity conservation as well as their contribution to mitigating and adapting to climate change In order to cope with these multiple service functions they must internalize the costs and benefits of their environmental impact Payments for ecosystem services are hoped to encourage and promote sustainable practices via financial incentives The authors show that while the principle is straightforward the practice is much more complicated Whereas scenic beauty and protection of water sources provide benefits to the local population carbon sequestration and biodiversity conservation can be considered international public goods rendering potential payment schemes more complex Few examples exist where national or international bodies have been able to set up viable mechanisms that compensate agricultural systems for the environmental services they provide However this book provides several examples of successful programs and aims to transfer them to other regions of the world The authors show that a product can be sold if it is clearly quantified there exists a means to determine the service s values and there is a willing buyer The first two sections of the book present methodological issues related to the quantification and marketing of ecosystem services from agriculture including agroforestry The third and final section presents case studies of practical payments for ecosystem services and experiences in Central and South America and draws some lessons learnt for effective and sustainable development of ecosystem services compensation mechanisms

Forests and Global Change David A. Coomes, David F. R. P. Burslem, William D. Simonson, 2014-02-20 Forests hold a significant proportion of global biodiversity and terrestrial carbon stocks and are at the forefront of human induced global change The dynamics and distribution of forest vegetation determines the habitat for other organisms and regulates the delivery of ecosystem services including carbon storage Presenting recent research across temperate and tropical ecosystems this volume synthesises the numerous ways that forests are responding to global change and includes perspectives on the role of forests in the global carbon and energy budgets historical patterns of forest change and diversification contemporary mechanisms of community assembly and implications of underlying drivers of global change and the ways in which forests supply ecosystem services that support human lives The chapters represent case studies drawn from the authors expertise highlighting exciting new research and providing information that will be valuable to academics students researchers and practitioners with an interest in this field

Integrative Ecology, 2010-12-14 This thematic volume represents an important and exciting benchmark in the study of integrative ecology synthesizing and showcasing current research and highlighting future directions for the development of the field Updates and informs the reader on the latest research findings Written by leading experts in the field Highlights areas for future investigation

Agroecosystem Diversity Gilles Lemaire, Paulo Cesar de Faccio Carvalho, Scott Kronberg, Sylvie Recous, 2018-10-08 Agro Ecosystem Diversity Impact on Food Security and Environmental Quality presents cutting edge exploration of developing novel farming systems and introduces landscape ecology to agronomy It encompasses the broad range of links between agricultural development and ecological impact and how to limit the potential negative results Presented in seven sections each focusing on a specific challenge to sustaining diversity the book provides insights toward the argument that by re introducing diversity it should be possible to maintain a high level of productivity of agro ecosystems while also maintaining and or restoring a satisfactory level of environment quality and biodiversity Demonstrates that diversified agro ecosystems can be intensified with environmental quality preserved restored and enhanced Includes analysis of economic constraints leading to specialization of farms and regions and the social locking forces resisting to diversification of agro ecosystems Presents a global vision of world agriculture and the tradeoff between a necessary increase in food production and restoring environment quality
