- Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine if there were differences in the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders among different types of workers. The study included 600 male employees from three companies. Data were collected by means of self-administered questionnaires. Results showed that the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was higher among non-manual workers than manual workers. The results also indicated that the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was higher among workers who had been employed for more than 10 years compared to those who had been employed for less than 10 years.
