Architecture As Metaphor Language Number Money Writing Architecture:

Architecture as Metaphor Kojin Karatani, 1995-10-05 In Architecture as Metaphor Kojin Karatani detects a recurrent will to architecture that he argues is the foundation of all Western thinking traversing architecture philosophy literature linguistics city planning anthropology political economics psychoanalysis and mathematics Kojin Karatani Japan's leading literary critic is perhaps best known for his imaginative readings of Shakespeare Soseki Marx Wittgenstein and most recently Kant His works of which Origins of Modern Japanese Literature is the only one previously translated into English are the generic equivalent to what in America is called theory Karatani's writings are important not only for the insights they offer on the various topics under discussion but also as an example of a distinctly non-Western critical intervention In Architecture as Metaphor Karatani detects a recurrent will to architecture that he argues is the foundation of all Western thinking traversing architecture philosophy literature linguistics city planning anthropology political economics psychoanalysis and mathematics In the three parts of the book he analyzes the complex bonds between construction and deconstruction thereby pointing to an alternative model of secular criticism but in the domain of philosophy rather than literary or cultural criticism As Karatani claims in his introduction because the will to architecture is practically nonexistent in Japan he must first assume a dual role one that affirms the architectonic by scrutinizing the suppressed function of form and one that pushes formalism to its collapse by invoking Kurt Gödel's incompleteness theorem His subsequent discussions trace a path through the work of Christopher Alexander Jane Jacobs Gilles Deleuze and others Finally amidst the drive that motivates all formalization he confronts an unbridgeable gap an uncontrollable event encountered in the exchange with the other thus his speculation turns toward global capital movement While in the present volume he mainly analyzes familiar Western texts it is precisely for this reason that his voice discloses a distance that will add a new dimension to our English language discourse Metaphorical

Practices in Architecture Sarah Borree, Stephanie Knuth, Moritz Röger, 2023-06-23 Metaphors are diversely and intricately embedded in architectural practice and discourse Precisely for this reason this volume argues and sets out to explore how they can be engaged to critically interrogate architecture's social cultural and political dimensions past and present and to productively challenge and intervene with established perspectives debates and practices Mapping out not just potentials but also addressing the challenges limitations and dangers inherent in using metaphors in architectural research and practice the volume prominently illustrates the ambiguity and contradictoriness inherent in both metaphors and the process of engaging and exploiting them Covering a broad range of historical and geographical cases and concerns the contributions illustrate effectively that metaphors can expand or narrow our engagement with architecture and consolidate or legitimise but also destabilise and challenge established social cultural disciplinary and political structures concepts and categories With its aim to explore metaphors as both subject and method to critically challenge and expand established practices perspectives and standards in architectural research and practice the volume will be of interest for scholars working across the architectural humanities including architectural history theory culture design and urbanism as well as for researchers concerned with architecture and the city from fields such as cultural visual and area studies as well as art history

The Discipline of Architecture, 2001 Architecture and Abstraction Pier Vittorio Aureli, 2023-11-07 A landmark study of abstraction in architectural history theory and practice that challenges our assumptions about the meaning of abstract forms In this theoretical study of abstraction in architecture the first of its kind Pier Vittorio Aureli argues for a reconsideration of abstraction its meanings and its sources Although architects have typically interpreted abstraction in formal terms the purposeful reduction of the complexities of design to its essentials Aureli shows that abstraction instead arises from the material conditions of building production In a lively study informed by Walter Benjamin Karl Marx Alfred Sohn Rethel and other social theorists this book presents abstraction in architecture not as an aesthetic tendency but as a movement that arises from modern divisions of labor and consequent social asymmetries These divisions were anticipated by the architecture of antiquity which established a distinction between manual and intellectual labor and placed the former in service to the latter Further abstractions arose as geometry used for measuring territories became the intermediary between land and money and eventually produced the logic of the grid In our own time architectural abstraction serves the logic of capitalism and embraces the premise that all things can be exchanged even experience itself is a commodity To resist this turn Aureli seeks a critique of architecture that begins not by scaling philosophical heights but by standing at the ground level of material practice

Welcome to the Hotel Architecture Roger Connah, 1998 Departing from conventional genres of architectural writing Roger Connah presents an original and wry reflection on the fickle but exciting role that language semantics and philosophy have played this century in relation to architecture Welcome to The Hotel Architecture is a five part anti epic poem on the culture of architecture its tribes and inventions the spectacular and vernacular and the processes through which names and movements are secured erased forgotten and manipulated

The Possibility of an Absolute Architecture Pier Vittorio Aureli, 2011-02-11 Architectural form reconsidered in light of a unitary conception of architecture and the city In The Possibility of an Absolute Architecture Pier Vittorio Aureli proposes that a sharpened formal consciousness in architecture is a precondition for political cultural and social engagement with the city Aureli uses the term absolute not in the conventional sense of pure but to denote something that is resolutely itself after being separated from its other In the pursuit of the possibility of an absolute architecture the other is the space of the city its extensive organization and its government Politics is agonism through separation and confrontation the very condition of architectural form is to separate and be separated Through its act of separation and being separated architecture reveals at once the essence of the city and the essence of itself as political form the city as the composition of separate parts Aureli revisits the work of four architects whose projects were advanced through the making of architectural form but whose concern was the city at large Andrea Palladio Giovanni Battista Piranesi Louis Boullée and Oswald Mathias Ungers The work of these architects Aureli argues addressed the transformations of the modern city and its urban implications through the elaboration of specific and strategic architectural forms Their projects for the city do not take the form of an overall plan but are expressed as an archipelago of site specific interventions

Formulations Andrew Witt, 2022-01-11 An investigation of mathematics as it was drawn encoded imagined and interpreted by architects on the eve of digitization in the mid twentieth century In Formulations Andrew Witt examines the visual methodological and cultural intersections between architecture and mathematics The linkages Witt explores involve not the mystic transcendence of numbers invoked throughout architectural history but rather architecture's encounters with a range of calculational systems techniques that architects inventively retooled for design Witt offers a catalog of mid twentieth century practices of mathematical drawing and calculation in design that preceded and anticipated digitization as well as an account of the formal compendia that became a cultural currency shared between modern mathematicians and modern architects Witt presents a series of extensively illustrated biographies of method episodes that chart the myriad ways in which mathematics particularly the mathematical notion of modeling and drawing was spliced into the creative practice of design These include early drawing machines that mechanized curvature the incorporation of geometric maquettes theorems made flesh into the toolbox of design the virtualization of buildings and landscapes through surveyed triangulation and photogrammetry formal and functional topology stereoscopic drawing the economic implications of cubic matrices and a strange synthesis of the technological mineral and biological crystallographic design Trained in both architecture and mathematics Witt uses mathematics as a lens through which to understand the relationship between architecture and a much broader set of sciences and visual techniques Through an intercultural exchange with other disciplines he argues architecture adapted not only the shapes and surfaces of mathematics but also its values and epistemic ideals

Architecture from the Outside

Elizabeth Grosz, 2001-06-22 Essays at the intersection of philosophy and architecture explore how we understand and inhabit space To be outside allows one a fresh perspective on the inside In these essays philosopher Elizabeth Grosz explores the ways in which two disciplines that are fundamentally outside each other architecture and philosophy can meet in a third space to interact free of their internal constraints Outside also refers to those whose voices are not usually heard in architectural discourse but who inhabit its space the destitute the homeless the sick and the dying as well as women and minorities Grosz asks how we can understand space differently in order to structure and inhabit our living arrangements accordingly Two themes run throughout the book temporal flow and sexual specificity Grosz argues that time change and emergence traditionally viewed as outside the concerns of space must become more integral to the processes of design and construction She also argues against architecture's historical indifference to sexual specificity asking what the existence of at least two sexes has to do with how we understand and experience space Drawing on the work of such philosophers as Henri Bergson Roger Caillois Gilles Deleuze Jacques Derrida Luce Irigaray and Jacques Lacan Grosz raises abstract but nonformalistic questions about space inhabitation and building All of the essays propose philosophical experiments to render space and building more mobile and dynamic

Origins of Modern Japanese Literature Kōjin Karatani, 1993 Karatani Kojin is one of Japan's leading critics In his work as a theoretician he has described Modernity as have few others he has re-evaluated the literature of the entire Meiji period and beyond As one critic has said Karatani's thought has had a profound effect on the way we formulate the questions we ask about modern literature and culture his argument is compelling moving even and in the end the reader comes away with a different understanding not only of modern Japanese literature but of modern Japan itself Among the many authors discussed are Soseki Natsume Doppo Kunikida Katai Tayama and Shoyo Tsubouchi
