Italy's Renaissance in Buildings and Gardens Frederick Kiefer, 2024-10-08 Palaces villas and churches These were the highlights of my first visit to Italy I took a lot of photos and looked forward to sharing them with friends and family Back home though I found that I didn't recall much about the places that impressed me Although I had the benefit of a half day guide in Rome Florence and Venice I sometimes had difficulty hearing what was said on crowded streets and busy interiors The guides were capable but had only enough time to mention a few major features As a rule they skimmed on actually describing buildings that intrigued me And so they were not especially helpful in providing the insights I wanted Upon my return I found myself wondering Where did the architects actually find their ideas What did they want to accomplish And what do their choices tell us about their time My sojourn in Italy would have been more satisfying if I had come away with a fuller account of what I had seen What I most needed was context This book supplies that context Contemplation of antiquity and the exchange of views among architects released a surge of intellectual energy not seen for a millennium a development that would never have happened so quickly were it not for Johannes Gutenberg's invention of printing with movable type. This development in turn led to architects heightened self-awareness of their collective enterprise. They read what their fellow architects wrote and thereby gained in sophistication. They were no longer merely masons. They became architects in the modern sense. They took pride in their achievements and shared a conviction that the visual culture they created was far superior to that of the previous thousand years. Their embrace of classical civilisation had a visceral urgency. Rome after all was a culture with a storied past peopled by larger than life figures. To learn what the ancients had created in word or stone could supply a shortcut to wisdom. And emulating the Romans would provide new models of aesthetic excellence. This endeavour became known as the Renaissance or rebirth. The Reformation however changed everything. Martin Luther brought to issue a quandary. How exactly was Christianity to be reconciled with the pagan past if at all. Could one source of inspiration be sustained without compromising the other. Religious reform questioned the aesthetic achievements of the previous hundred years. The story of Renaissance architecture represents the effort to find an accommodation.

A Life of Sir Harry Parkes Robert Morton, 2025-10-01 Harry Parkes was at the heart of Britain's relations with the Far East from the start of his working life at fourteen to his death at fifty-seven. Orphaned at the age of five he went to China on his own as a child and worked his way to the top. God-fearing and fearless he believed his mission was to bring trade and civilisation to East Asia. In his day he was seen as both a hero and a monster and is still bitterly resented in China for his part in the country's humiliations at Western hands but largely esteemed in Japan for helping it to industrialise. Morton's new biography the first in over thirty years and benefiting in part from access to the Parkes family and archives offers a more intimate and informed profile of the personal and professional life of a Victorian titan and one of Britain's most undiplomatic diplomats in the history of the British Civil Service.

Architecture as Communication Ross A. Eaman, 2025-04-08 Media theory has long overlooked the built environment and its communicative capacity. How built structures and spaces convey meaning through material embodiment and symbolization. Architecture as Communication advances the idea that built environments function as media of communication. Using practice theory in conjunction with the concept of style this book is anchored in three historical determinants: the quest for perfect proportion in buildings, the belief in architectural determinism, and the ongoing efforts within other media to influence how those who experience built environments understand them. Ross Eaman explores how houses, schools, places of worship, factories, office buildings, stores, malls, opera houses, plazas, and parks have meaning for people as subjective life worlds. Architecture as Communication proposes media theory that articulates the social construction of meaning as a unique way of understanding the built environment, one in which the users and observers of structures and spaces participate along with architects and designers. Architecture according to Eaman encompasses the multiplicity of communication as human interaction preparing people for what they are about to encounter, signalling how they should act and selectively enabling them to perform their expected role. Using examples across many historical periods and cultures Architecture as

Communication argues that we judge our built environments by the values they communicate

Objects of Liberty Pamela Buck, 2024-03-15 Objects of Liberty explores the prevalence of souvenirs in British women's writing during the French Revolution and Napoleonic era. It argues that women writers employed the material and memorial object of the souvenir to circulate revolutionary ideas and engage in the masculine realm of political debate. While souvenir collecting was a standard practice of privileged men on the eighteenth-century Grand Tour, women began to partake in this endeavor as political events in France heightened interest in travel to the Continent. Looking at travel accounts by Helen Maria Williams, Mary Wollstonecraft, Catherine and Martha Wilmot, Charlotte Eaton, and Mary Shelley, this study reveals how they used souvenirs to affect political thought in Britain and contribute to conversations about individual and national identity. At a time when gendered beliefs precluded women from full citizenship, they used souvenirs to redefine themselves as legitimate political actors. Objects of Liberty is a story about the ways that women established political power and agency through material culture.

No nos limitamos a contemplar los edificios, sus fachadas, su belleza o su fealdad; ocultan también el espacio en el que vivimos. Nacemos, trabajamos, amamos y morimos relacionándonos con la arquitectura. Todos estos aspectos de la arquitectura económicos, políticos o psicológicos son cruciales si queremos entender tanto la arquitectura misma como nuestras vidas y nuestro mundo. Este libro nos acerca a la historia de la arquitectura a través de un planteamiento sumamente original: diez capítulos con diez edificios representativos que simbolizan esas relaciones de la arquitectura con la política, el sexo, el arte, la religión o el retiro. Empieza con una aproximación a la Torre de Babel, una construcción simbólica que el autor relaciona con otros edificios como las torres gemelas. Sigue una mezquita en Tumbuctú, el Palazzo Rucellai de Florencia, el teatro de Bayreuth, la obra de Le Corbusier o una fábrica de coches en Chicago. Edificios a partir de los cuales el autor traza una historia del mundo y del desarrollo de las condiciones de vida, de trabajo e incluso de nuestras prioridades en el orden moral y estético. Libros de arquitectura es Para vos nací Espido Freire, 2015 Teresa de Cepeda y Ahumada ha cumplido sus primeros quinientos años de vida y su figura y sus palabras llegan a nosotros tan intensas y refrescantes como lo fueron en su época. Puede que incluso más a través de una voz muy especial, la de Espido Freire, quien a modo de diario comparte lo que podrá ser un mes con Teresa de Jesús con la intención de acercarnos a la vida real, una forma de afrontar la existencia que puede tener sentido en nuestro día a día. Parte biográfica, alternativa, parte meditativa sobre sus pensamientos y frases más relevantes. Espido Freire dialoga con Teresa sobre la dificultad de ser mujer en un mundo de hombres, el conflicto entre la espiritualidad y la acción, el espíritu de superación, la enfermedad mental, la escritura como terapia, los viajes, el ansia de conocimiento, la necesidad del buen vivir y del buen morir, las relaciones con la familia como fuente de crecimiento y de limitación, la amistad hombre-mujer, la vida contemplativa hasta construir una completa y original guía de vida.

No tan elemental Daniel Tubau, 2015 Estimado lector, observe a su alrededor. ¿Qué es lo que ve? Probablemente nada resaltante. Una imagen cotidiana, trivialidades insignificantes. Una estampa costumbrista. Ahora póngase en la piel de Sherlock Holmes, el maestro de la deducción, el más habil de los investigadores, un precursor de la semiótica, del método científico de disciplinas como la criptografía, la medicina y la hipnosis. Y con esas habilidades trate de descubrir cuál es la profesión de cualquiera que pase a su alrededor. Trate de saber de dónde viene, adónde se dirige, qué le perturba. Elucubre sobre cuáles son sus intenciones, qué esconde, si miente o es honesto. No es una tarea sencilla. Pues bien, este es el objetivo que nos plantea Daniel Tubau: conocer cuál es el método utilizado por el más cálido de los investigadores. Aprender a leer los rostros, a identificar signos de aspecto banal, a descifrar enigmas y resolver retos mentales. Todo en definitiva para ver más allá de las apariencias, para conocer qué mundo se oculta tras lo evidente.
