Assessing Advances and Challenges in Technical Education in Brazil Rita Almeida, Nicole Amaral, Fabiana de Felicio, 2015-10-22 As Brazil is massively investing in a scale up of in vocational education and training VET through the national flagship program PRONATEC this report assesses institutions and policies in VET taking an in depth critical view of upcoming opportunities It shares international best practices on selected operational issues identified as strategic bottlenecks for the delivery of technical education The report explores multiple sources of information including a desk review of existing reports and papers inputs data provided by the Ministry of Education and interviews with multiple stakeholders and practitioners at the federal and state level The report highlights the need of promoting a better alignment between the supply and demand of skills at the sub national level and of promoting better a solid monitoring and evaluation system including the monitoring of student learning and of the trajectories into the labor market or into higher educational degrees Issues of student career guidance and teacher quality also emerge as areas of strategic importance to the Brazilian VET system in the years ahead We conclude with specific policy recommendations for PRONATEC

Routes to Reform Ben Ross Schneider, 2024 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence It is free to read on the Oxford Academic platform and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations The key to sustained and equitable development in Latin America is high quality education for all However coalitions favoring quality reforms in education are usually weak because parents are dispersed business is not interested and much of the middle class has exited public education In Routes to Reform Ben Ross Schneider examines education policy throughout Latin America to show that reforms to improve learning especially making teacher careers more meritocratic and less political are possible Several Andean countries and state governments in Brazil achieved notable reform since 2000 though on markedly different trajectories Although rare the first bottom up route to reform was electoral The second route was more top down and technocratic with little support from voters or civil society Ultimately by framing education policy in a much broader comparative perspective Schneider demonstrates that contrary to much established theory reform outcomes in Latin America depended less on institutions and broad coalitions but rather due to the emptiness of the education policy space on more micro factors like civil society organizations teacher unions policy networks and technocrats

Ready to Learn Tara Beteille, Namrata Tognatta, Michelle Riboud, Shinsaku Nomura, Yashodhan Ghorpade, 2020-03-06 Countries that have sustained rapid growth over decades have typically had a strong public commitment to expanding education as well as to improving learning outcomes South Asian countries have made considerable progress in expanding access to primary and secondary schooling with countries having achieved near universal enrollment of the primary school age cohort ages 6-11 except for Afghanistan and Pakistan Secondary enrollment shows an upward trend as well Beyond school many more people have access to skilling opportunities and higher education today Although governments have consistently pursued policies to expand access a prominent feature of the region has been the role played by nonstate actors private nonprofit and forprofit entities in expanding access at every level of education Though learning levels remain low countries in the region have shown a strong commitment to improving learning All countries in South Asia have taken the first step which is to assess learning outcomes regularly Since 2010 there has been a rapid increase in the number of large scale student learning assessments conducted in the region But to use the findings of these assessments to improve schooling countries must build their capacity to design assessments and analyze and use findings to inform policy

Skills and Jobs in Brazil Rita K. Almeida, Truman G. Packard, 2018-07-19 Skills and Jobs in Brazil An Agenda for Youth is a new report focusing on the challenge of economic engagement among the Brazilian youth In the context of a fast aging population Brazil s greatest economic opportunity is to increase its labor productivity especially that of youth This report documents important new facts about the extent of the youth economic disengagement while at school and at work Today close to half of the Brazilian youth aged 15 29 years old is not fully economically engaged because they are neither working nor studying are studying in schools of poor quality or are working in informal and precarious jobs The report shows how the youth prospects in the labor market are dimmed by policies favoring existing workers over new entrants in addition it shows how youth are often ill equipped to meet an increasingly challenging labor market The report suggests new education skills and jobs policy changes that Brazil could prioritize moving forward so that it can take advantage of the last wave of its demographic transition The report discusses in particular depth policies aiming to increase learning and reduce school dropouts in upper secondary education and labor market policies that aim to support more effective and faster youth transitions from school to work
