A New Way With Crime:

Technocrime Stéphane Leman-Langlois, 2013-05-13 This book is concerned with the concept of technocrime The term encompasses crimes committed on or with computers the standard definition of cybercrime but it goes well beyond this to convey the idea that technology enables an entirely new way of committing combating and thinking about criminality criminals police courts victims and citizens Technology offers for example not only new ways of combating crime but also new ways to look for unveil and label crimes and new ways to know watch prosecute and punish criminals Technocrime differs from books concerned more narrowly with cybercrime in taking an approach and understanding of the scope of technology s impact on crime and crime control It uncovers mechanisms by which behaviours become crimes or cease to be called crimes It identifies a number of corporate government and individual actors who are instrumental in this construction And it looks at the beneficiaries of increased surveillance control and protection as well as the targets of it Chapters in the book cover specific technologies e g the use of CCTV in various settings computers hackers and security experts photo radar but have a wider objective to provide a comparative perspective and some broader theoretical foundations for thinking about crime and technology than have existed hitherto This is a pioneering book which advances our understanding of the relationship between crime and technology drawing upon the disciplines of criminology political science sociology psychology anthropology surveillance studies and cultural studies

Savona,2004-11-22 Guido Rossi As Chairman of ISPAC I want to thank all the contributors to this book that originates from the International Conference on Crime and Technology This could be the end of my presentation if I did not feel uneasy not considering one of the problems I believe to be pivotal in the relationship between crime and technology I shall also consider that the same relationship exists between terror and globalization while globalization is stemming from technology and terror from crime Transnational terrorism is today made possible by the vast array of communication tools But the paradox is that if globalization facilitates terrorist violence the fight against this war without borders is potentially disastrous for both economic development and globalization Antiterrorist measures restrict mobility and financial flows while new terrorist attacks could lead the way for an antiglobalist reaction But the global society has yet to agree on a common definition of terrorism or on a common policy against it The ordinary traditional criminal law is still depending on the sovereignty of national states while international criminal justice is only a spotty and contested last resort The fragmented and weak international institutions and underdeveloped civil societies have no power to enforce criminal justice against terrorism At the same time the states that are its targets have no interest in applying the laws of war the Geneva Conventions to their fight against terrorists
